KABATAAN ROADTRIP

RATIONALE

The objectives of the Kabataan Roadtrip 2019 are to introduce the role of Public Administration in the development of the Philippine society, and to demonstrate that studying Public Administration is an effective tool to promote public service. Using the public administration lens, the event will explore the pressing problems on agriculture and public health, and will look into the solutions that involve the youth's participation. At the end of the event, the participants will be able to answer the following questions about the issues discussed: (1) What is the problem situation? (2) What are the proposed solutions, and how do they address the problem? (3) How can the youth be a part of a solution, and what positive changes can they bring to alleviate the problem?

AGRICULTURE

From previously being a top rice exporter, the Philippines became a net importer of rice in 1993. Since 1993, the local production has not been able to meet the country's demand for rice which prompted the government to import rice from other countries. To address the low rice production in the Philippines, experts have looked into crafting new rice market policies, implementing land reform, increasing investment in research and development, and rehabilitating or building agriculture infrastructure such as irrigation systems.

The present administration chose to pass a new policy to increase the competitiveness of the agricultural sector and to address the "rice crisis" that saw some parts of the country underwent grave supply issues that resulted to retail prices rising to historically high amounts. The Rice Tariffication law or RA 11203 was enacted on February 19, 2019. The law lifts the importation quotas on rice which limits the volume of rice entering the country, and instead places tariffs on rice purchased by importers. The tariff revenues will be used to help farmers reduce production costs.

KABATAAN ROADTRIP

Due to the enactment of the law, the country saw an increase in the supply of cheaper rice imports. While the consumers benefit from the decrease in prices, the local farmers were negatively affected by increasing foreign competition because the amount of palay prices are falling closer to or below the production cost level. Although there are provisions in the law that provide assistance to farmers by reducing production costs and buying the rice that they produce, the farmers are seeing their profits decline which consequently hurt production.

The Rice Tariffication law has its merits. However, to increase the rice yield and competitiveness of the agricultural sector, the government should formulate and enforce more solutions.

PUBLIC HEALTH

To protect children and mothers from vaccine-preventable diseases (VPD), the government developed the Expanded Program on Immunization in 1976. The expected outcomes are decreases in morbidity and mortality among children. These outcomes could be achieved by making vaccines accessible to the target beneficiaries.

The immunization program of the government has been an effective means to prevent deaths from VPD. However, there had been a growing unease among the citizens over the safety of vaccines due to controversies particularly on the use of Dengvaxia vaccine. The dengue vaccine was distributed in the Philippines by the Department of Health (DOH) in 2017. After the DOH rolled out the vaccine, Sanofi Pasteur, the pharmaceutical company which developed Dengvaxia, released research findings which showed that the patients who received the vaccine without prior experience of being infected with dengue were at risk of a more severe infection. Due to the Dengvaxia controversy, the trust approval of the DOH plummeted and as a consequence, the overall coverage of immunization in the country decreased considerably. When citizens decline to be vaccinated, disease outbreaks are bound to happen.

KABATAAN ROADTRIP

By late 2017, there was a measles outbreak in Mindanao. Despite government efforts to control the spread of the disease, the disease expanded to several regions in Visayas and Luzon. In five of these affected regions, the DOH announced a measles outbreak. Presently, the Philippines has the highest number of measles cases in Asia, and second in the world. While the DOH is placing considerable attention to curb the measles outbreak, the cases of Dengue has been increasing that the DOH declared a National Dengue Alert.

The trust of the citizens towards DOH must increase in order for the citizens to accept vaccination. Only when the citizens are not hesitant to receive vaccines will the immunization coverage increase, and subsequently decrease the cases of VPD. According to the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine, the challenge for the DOH is to rebuild its credibility.
